Sustainability Updates

The District's Energy Management team, Energy Manager Matt Foley and Energy Specialist Josh Munro, will provide an update on the district's energy conservation projects, specifically a number of recently-completed large heating plant upgrades. Key highlights will include sources of external funding for these capital-intensive projects from organizations such as B.C. Hydro, Fortis and Pacific Carbon Trust, as well as the various resulting benefits, including reduced green house gas emissions.

A representative from the Burnaby Youth Sustainability Network ("BYSN") will provide a brief update on some of its recent accomplishments and latest plans. The BYSN is composed of approximately forty students from the district's eight secondary schools who represent the sustainability and environmental clubs from their home schools. Their mandate is to promote and enhance sustainable environmental practices within the Burnaby School system.
